

Electronic Signature Services

It used to be when you had a complex document that needed to be signed, everyone had to gather in the same room and it was a big hassle for everyone involved. Today we have digital services that make getting your documents and signatures a snap! We have put together a list of the five most popular online signature gathering services for you:

PandaDoc

The simple CMS system makes this a breeze to use. You can create “content blocks” which are text, videos etc and then REUSE them in later documents which is a big time saver. There are two plan packages, the “Business Plan” which is $49 per month and is designed for small teams and the Enterprise version of PandaDoc which is more suited for larger teams. The Enterprise package also has advanced reporting if you want to dig more into your data. PandaDoc can merge with your existing CMS software. PandaDoc is a good solution for people looking for a painless, drag and drop interface that won’t put you in over your head.

This is one of the larger e-signing services, boasting clients like the US Army, BMW and Wells Fargo. OneSpan encrypts both the signature fields AND the documents

The screenshot shows the DocuSign website's 'Send a New Document' page. The navigation bar at the top includes 'MORE', 'DOCUMENTS', and 'TEMPLATES'. The main heading is 'Send a New Document'. Below this, there are two primary actions: 'UPLOAD A FILE' and 'GET FROM CLOUD'. To the right, there are three circular icons with text: 'SIGN A DOCUMENT' (Sign quickly if you are the only signer), 'USE A TEMPLATE' (Start with one of your templates), and 'CONTINUE A DRAFT' (You have 1 draft). On the left sidebar, under 'THE NEW EXPERIENCE', it says 'Welcome to the new DocuSign experience. Find a feature not yet available to the new experience? Switch back to the docuSign experience?'. Below that, 'HELP FEEDBACK' is visible. At the bottom, a status bar shows four categories: 'Needs My Action', 'Waiting for Others', 'Cancelled (Last 6 Months)', and 'Completed (Last 6 Months)'. The URL 'www.docuSign.com' is overlaid on the image.

A San Francisco based company that does simple document signing services. You can check the “status” of a document and quickly and easily see who has signed, and who hasn’t. DocuSign is one of the cheaper options, with basic plans starting at $10 per month going up to $25 for the “standard plan” and $40 for the “Business Pro Plan” which allows you to collect payments, has advanced fields, signer attachments etc. DocuSign has standards “templates” for everything from non disclosure agreements to board minutes.

This company has some interesting features like the requirement of documents to submit, notifications at anyone signing the document and document expiration dates if the item is time sensitive. The site also has automated reminders if a document or a signature is still needed. This is one of the cheapest sites I have reviewed so far with a basic plan starting at a surprising $5 a month jumping up to $15 for Business which has all those bells and whistles a regular user might not miss like custom branding and link protection.

Hellosign

This company boasts a lot of big names in various industries including Lyft, Samsung and Twitter. The website integrates with Google Drive. You can request people sign documents or request signatures from up to twenty individual people in any order, or all at the same time. When the document is complete, everyone gets a copy delivered to their email inbox. You can try Hellosign for free to see if you like the interface, and the PRO version is only $13 a month and lets you set up unlimited documents. If you want to use your own branding and get other useful features their BUSINESS plan is $40 a month. All of these different versions can be tried for free with a 30 day trial.
