RFP Library

Over the last two years, LSNTAP staff has pored over the listserv archive to find all of the Request for Proposals (RFP) that have been shared. Each of those RFPs was then classified by category, area of concern, and desired outcome. Staff also made note of the budget and timeline for each RFP. The resulting database brimming with information has been dubbed the LSNTAP RFP Library.

The RFP Library is meant to be a resource for the community to use as a reference when crafting RFPs. By looking at the examples, organizations will have a starting point on what to include, things to consider, how much time a project may require, and budget.

When using the library, it is best to expand the window using the "View Larger Version" icon at the bottom right. Then, use the filter to narrow down the selections to those most relevant. The example RFPs may be downloaded when a particularly useful one is found.

As you use the database, the Outcome category may be the best place to start filtering as this category reflects the goal of the RFP.

The following Outcome categories are listed:

- Access Improvement

- AI Integration

- Answers

- Artificial Intelligence Improvement

- Case Management Improvement
