This session lays the foundation for understanding the power and importance of data visualization in legal aid. Participants will learn about the basics of data visualization, including common types of visualizations, principles of effective design, and why visualization is a critical tool for advocacy, reporting, and decision-making. Our speakers for this session are Susan Vincent and Rachel Perry.

This session is for legal aid staff, managers, and anyone interested in exploring how data visualization can enhance their work. No experience necessary.

Thursday, November 21, 2024 from 1-2:30 pm EDT
